

Contemporary Issues in Human Rights:

1. Digital rights:

- Striking a balance between digital privacy and security.
- Addressing issues such as online surveillance and data breaches.

2. Environmental rights:

- Recognizing how climate change affects vulnerable communities.
- Promoting fairness in the environment and advocating for sustainable practices.

3. Refugee and migration rights:

- Ensuring the rights of people who have been displaced are protected.
- Tackling issues in the treatment of refugees and migrants.

4. Social and economic inequality:

- Ensuring that the economical and social rights of marginalized groups are protected.
- Fighting all sorts of discrimination based on income, gender, or social status.

5. Pandemic response and health rights:

- Finding a middle ground between safeguarding public health and respecting individual rights.
- Tackling inequalities in access to healthcare during pandemics.

6. Freedom of expression in the digital age:

- Managing issues related to online censorship and disinformation.

Faculty of social and human sciences

Instructor: Ms. Dehamcha Samira

Module: English

3rd year LMD

- Preserving free speech as communication technologies evolve.

7. Racial and ethnic discrimination:

- Opposing and working to eliminate systemic racism and discrimination.
- Fighting for justice and equality in different institutions.

8. Rights of people with disabilities:

- Encouraging inclusiveness and ensuring accessibility.

9. National security and human rights:

- Ensuring national security without compromising human rights.
- Dealing with worries surrounding surveillance and the protection of civil liberties.