First English assignment

While General English is the language of everyday life—chatting with friends, ordering coffee, or watching a movie—Academic English is the specific “register” used in universities, research, and scholarly publications.

Based on the given passage, discuss the difference between Academic English and General English. Support your answers with examples.

Ps, your project work should be handed to the head of Department, and it is a group work (a group of 4 members)

Best of luck
